Sales Performance & Revenue Optimization Audit

- Regional, Product & Sales Representative Performance Analysis
  Excel-Based Dashboarding, KPI Evaluation & Business Insights

Vinayak Khandelwal
SHIV NADAR UNIVERSITY

Executive Summary

Strategic Sales Performance Overview This audit provides a comprehensive evaluation of sales operations, focusing on regional efficiency, product-tier performance, and individual representative impact. The total revenue generated for the period was ₹172,093 across 160 deals, resulting in an Average Contract Value (ACV) of ₹1,075.58 .

Key Business Insights:

- Revenue Quality: Acquisitions of new customers are the primary growth driver, contributing 63.71% (₹109,640) of total revenue, while returning customers account for 36.29%. A significant 26.7% variance in ACV between new and returning customers indicates a critical need for structured loyalty and upselling programs.
- Regional Dominance: The East region leads in revenue (29.45%) despite closing fewer deals (18.13%), signaling high-value transaction success . Conversely, the South is the volume leader, contributing ~34% of all deals but only 25.78% of total revenue.
- Product Performance: Basic products form the backbone of operations, contributing 43.47% of total revenue. The Pro tier shows a 24% revenue deficit relative to Basic despite similar volumes, suggesting a need for pricing model realignment.
- Representative Highlights: Vikram is the top-performing Strategic Account Executive, contributing 27.52% of total revenue with the highest pricing disciplin. Priya leads in Sales Velocity (7,807/day), outperforming the team average by 35%.

Strategic Recommendations:

- Implement targeted upselling workshops for representatives like Sneha to transition from volume-filling to value-driven selling.
- Address the revenue gap in the West region through enhanced sales capacity and market activation.
- Realign incentive structures for high-volume closers like Anil to prioritize deal quality and Average Order Value (AOV) over pure deal count.

Strategic Sales Performance Audit: Revenue & Market Penetration Analysis

Section 1: Operational Key Performance Indicators (KPIs).

Goal: Understand the "State of the Union" and the health of the revenue stream.

- The Big Picture: What is our total revenue, total deals, and overall average revenue per deal?

- TOTAL REVENUE - 172093
- TOTAL DEALS – 160
- AVERAGE PER DEAL – 1075.58

- Revenue Quality: What is the ratio of New vs. Returning revenue? Are we successfully building a loyal customer base or constantly hunting for new leads?

Customer Type	Revenue	Revenue Contribution(%)	Deals Closed	ACV
New	109640	63.71%	90	1218.222222
Returning	62453	36.29%	70	892.1857143
Grand Total	172093	100.00%	160	1075.58125

Analysis indicates a 26.7% variance between New and Returning customer ACV, suggesting a critical need for a structured Loyalty and Upsell Program to maximize Customer Lifetime Value (CLV)

Sales Force Strategic Audit: Representative Performance & ACV

- Priya (High-Value Specialist): Priya achieved the highest regional efficiency with an ACV of 4,107.5 in the East (driven by 2 high-impact deals) and 3,074 in the South. Her ability to capture premium pricing in the East suggests a strong product-market fit for high-tier offerings.
- Anil (Regional Yield Leader): Anil established a benchmark for the East region with an ACV of 2,438. His performance indicates superior negotiation and value-articulation skills, particularly in high-revenue territories.
- Vikram (The Stability Anchor): Vikram demonstrated the most consistent performance across all territories. Maintaining a uniform ACV (benchmarked at ~2,631 overall) across diverse regions suggests highly disciplined pricing strategies and a scalable, mature sales model.
- Sneha (Volume Consistency): Sneha maintains steady performance across all regions, particularly in the Pro segment where she accounts for 17% of total revenue. There is a significant opportunity to transition her from midtier volume-filling to value-driven selling through targeted upselling workshops.

- Rahul (Performance Intervention Opportunity): Rahul is currently trailing the team average in deal value across all regions (with an overall ACV of ~813). This identifies a critical need for Performance Coaching or a realignment of lead-qualification criteria to improve his conversion quality in Enterprise accounts.

Sales Consistency Metric.

Executive Business Intelligence

Priya leads the team in Sales Velocity (7,807/day), outperforming the team average by 35%. Vikram follows with a steady 6,766/day.

Strategic Territorial Distribution & Representative Strength

- Vikram (Market Penetration Leader - East/North): Vikram is the primary driver in the highvalue East (19,999) and North (19,106) territories. His strategic focus on these two regions alone accounts for nearly 23% of the total company revenue, establishing him as the benchmark for northern and eastern market management.
- Anil (Regional Expansion Specialist): Anil shows strong revenue capture in the North (16,078) and East (12,190). His balanced performance across these regions suggests a high degree of adaptability to different regional buyer behaviors.
- Priya (Multi-Territory Contributor): While Priya is a dominant force in the South (15,370), she effectively maintains a presence in the North and East, contributing approximately 5% of total revenue from each. This demonstrates her ability to manage a diverse geographical portfolio without losing focus on her primary hub.
- Sneha (Western Territory Champion): Sneha is currently the sole high-performer in the West, generating 11% of total revenue from this region alone. Her unique success in the West, combined with stable "baseline" performance in the North and South, marks her as the lead candidate for training others on Western market penetration.
- Rahul (South Region Specialist): Rahul's performance is heavily concentrated in the South (9,252). While stable in this region, there is a strategic opportunity to cross-train him for the North or East to diversify his revenue impact.

Which region closes the most deals

1-South = Volume Leader

- South contributes ~34% of all deals, the highest among all regions.
- Indicates:
  - High sales activity ○ Faster deal cycles
  - Strong penetration of low-to-mid ticket deals

South is our "quantity engine"

2- South ≠ Revenue Leader

- Despite highest deal share, South contributes only 25.78% of revenue
- This gap shows:
  - Lower average revenue per deal ○ Higher concentration of Basic / lower-value deals ○ Pricing or upselling opportunity exists

3- North = Most Efficient Region

- Deal % (29.38%) ≈ Revenue % (28.73%)
- Indicates healthy balance between volume and value
- Strong execution + good pricing

North is your most stable region

4-East = Value Leader, Not Volume

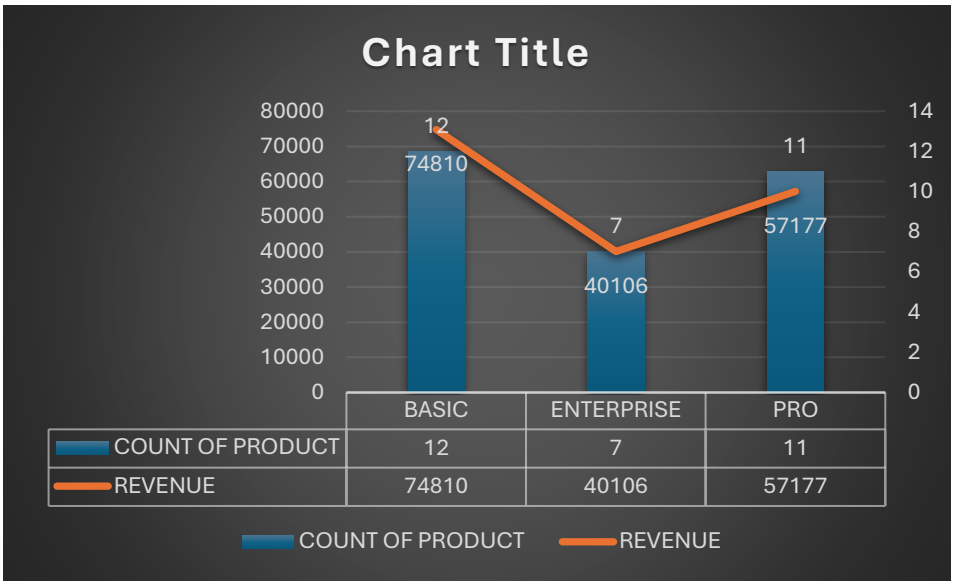

Only 18.13% of deals

- But highest revenue contribution (29.45%)
- Shows:
  - High-ticket deals

Product-Level Insights

Products: Basic, Pro, Enterprise

PRODUCT	COUNT OF PRODUCT	REVENUE	ACV
BASIC	12	74810	6234.166667
ENTERPRISE	7	40106	5729.428571
PRO	11	57177	5197.909091

REVENUE
BASIC > ENTERPRISE > PRO

The Pro tier displays a 24% revenue deficit relative to Basic despite similar unit volume, signalling a strategic need for a pricing model review or value-proposition realignment.

ENTERPRISE HAS ONLY 7 COUNTS OF PRODUCTS BUT A HIGHER AOV THAN PRO AND ONLY 10% LOWER AVERAGE REVENUE THAN BASIC

Representative Specialization Matrix

Which rep sells which product best

Representative	Product Category	Units Sold	Revenue Contribution (%)	Analysis
Vikram & Priya	Basic	4 (Each)	36%	Core Volume Drivers: Highimpact contribution to the entry-level segment.
Rahul & Anil	Enterprise	5 (Total)	16%	Strategic Accounts: Lower volume but high-stakes deals involving complex sales cycles.

Representative	Product Category	Units Sold	Revenue Contribution (%)	Analysis
Sneha	Pro	5	17%	Product Specialist: Demonstrates the highest efficiency for the mid-tier product line.
Anil	Pro	4	10%	Cross-Tier Seller: Shows versatility by supporting the mid-tier revenue stream.

Product–Region Revenue Mix: Key Insights

Overall Product Contribution (Revenue Share)

- Basic: 43.47% → Largest revenue contributor
- Pro: 33.22%
- Enterprise: 23.30%

Insight:
Revenue is currently volume-driven, with Basic products forming the backbone of total revenue, while Pro and Enterprise together still contribute ~56.5%, indicating strong upsell potential.

Regional Performance by Product

Basic Product (43.47%)

Region	Revenue %
North	13.11% (Highest)
East	12.64%
South	11.39%
West	6.33%

Insight:

- Basic sales are well distributed, but North and East lead
- West significantly underperforms → distribution or sales coverage gap

-Enterprise Product (23.30%)

Region	Revenue %
North	12.44% (Dominant)
South	6.05%
West	2.65%
East	2.17%

Insight:

- North alone contributes over 53% of Enterprise revenue
- Enterprise is highly concentrated, indicating:
    - Strong enterprise-ready market in North ○ Low penetration elsewhere → clear expansion opportunity

-Pro Product (33.22%)

Region	Revenue %
East	14.64% (Leader)
South	8.34%
West	7.06%
North	3.19%

Insight:

- East is the Pro-product stronghold
- North significantly lags in Pro adoption
- Pro performs best in regions with higher-value selling behaviour

Strategic Cross-Product Insights

- North

  Strong in Basic (13.11%) + Enterprise(12.44%) – 25.55%

  Weak in Pro (3.19%) → upsell opportunity

- East

  Strong in Pro (14.64%) + Basic (12.64) – 27.28%

  Weak in Enterprise (2.17%) → mid-to-large account targeting needed

- South

  Balanced across all products

  Good candidate for bundling & migration from Basic → Pro

- West

  Weak across all products

  Needs market activation sales capacity enhancement

Basic products drive volume, Pro drives value, and Enterprise revenue is highly concentrated in North. East leads Pro adoption, while West underperforms across all product lines—making it the highest-priority region for intervention.

Cross Add-Up Revenue Insights

-Cross Add-Up by Region (What each region's revenue is made of)

North (28.73% of Total Revenue)

- Basic: 45.6%
- Enterprise: 43.3%
- Pro: 11.1%

Insight:

North is Enterprise and Basic-heavy, low Pro penetration → clear upsell lever.

East (29.45% of Total Revenue – Highest)

- Pro: 49.7%

- Basic: 42.9%
- Enterprise: 7.4%

Insight:

East is a high-value region, but Enterprise is underdeveloped → ideal for mid-to-large account expansion.

South (25.78% of Total Revenue)

- Basic: 44.2%
- Pro: 32.3%
- Enterprise: 23.5%

Insight:

South has the most balanced product mix, making it ideal for cross-sell and bundle strategies.

West (16.04% of Total Revenue)

- Pro: 44.0%
- Basic: 39.5%
- Enterprise: 16.5%

Insight:

West relies on Pro and Basic but lacks volume → market development issue, not product-market fit.

Pro Total				23	10.18%	761.7826087
Grand Total				46	18.92%	707.7608696

What the Data Shows

- High deal activity but weak revenue efficiency across products.
- Pro dominates volume (23 deals) but contributes only 10.18% of total revenue, in which East in New customers alone makes 8.5% of Revenue with 6 deals.
- Severe deal–revenue mismatch:
    - Pro – South (New): 9 deals → 0.87% revenue (₹166.9 / deal) ○ Pro – West (Returning): 8 deals → 0.81% revenue (₹173.9 / deal)
- Even in Basic – South, 8 deals yield just ₹378 per deal.

Root Cause

- Heavy focus on low-ticket Pro deals and deeply discounted closures.
- Weak customer qualification, especially in South & West.
- Effort spent on volume chasing instead of value creation.

Verdict

Effective but very weak AOV

Very good at closing deals
Incentives likely reward deal count over deal quality

Needs proper guidance for Higher AOV

- Enterprise – North (Returning):
  - 6 deals → 5.46% revenue ○ ₹1,565 per deal, showing solid enterprise conversion.
- Overall 22.68% revenue share with only 21 deals.

Root Cause

- Strong pricing discipline.
- Better customer-product fit, especially for Basic and Enterprise.
- Selective selling instead of over-closing.

Verdict

- Clear contrast between customer types:
  - Returning – South: ₹1,048 per deal (strong) ○ New – East/South: ₹405–₹533 per deal (weak)
- Deal-heavy new acquisition, but low monetization.
- Total revenue share (8.22%) matches deal share, but upside unrealized.

Root Cause

- Strong at account retention, weak at new Enterprise penetration.
- Likely discounting heavily to win new logos.
- Needs better value articulation in new deals.

Verdict

-Needs coaching on new-customer selling -

- Excellent performance with Returning Pro customers:
  - West: ₹1,197 per deal ○ East: ₹2,052 per deal
- Basic underperforms:
  - South returning: ₹172 per deal
- Strong balance across regions, especially in Pro.

Root Cause

- Deep product expertise in Pro.
- Strong relationship management with returning customers.
- Lower focus / pricing power in Basic segment.

Verdict

Sales Representative–Wise SWOT Analysis

Vikram – Strategic Account Executive

Strengths

- Highest revenue contribution (27.52%).
- Excellent pricing discipline and minimal discounting.
- Strong performance in East and North, the highest-value regions.
- High average deal value across products.
- Strong ability to handle strategic and premium accounts.

Weaknesses

- Lower deal volume in some regions, which may limit total market coverage.
- Heavy dependence on East and North; limited presence in South and West.

Opportunities

- Can lead Enterprise expansion in East and South.
- Can be used as internal benchmark for value-based selling.
- Can mentor other reps in negotiation and pricing strategy.

Threats

- Over-reliance on Vikram for high-value deals creates performance risk.
- Burnout risk due to handling critical accounts.

Priya – High-Efficiency Value Specialist

Strengths

- High revenue efficiency with fewer deals.
- Strong performance in Basic and Enterprise segments.
- Excellent pricing and value articulation skills.
- Strong in South and consistent across regions.

Weaknesses

- Lower deal volume compared to top volume performers.
- Limited dominance in West region.

Opportunities

- Can handle premium and enterprise clients across regions.
- Suitable as mentor for mid-level reps.
- Can expand Enterprise in East and North.

Threats

- Risk of under-utilization if not given premium leads.
- Dependence on specific regions for peak performance.

Sneha – Pro Product Specialist

Strengths

- Strongest performer in Pro category.
- Excellent performance with returning customers.
- Stable performance across regions.
- Strong relationship management skills.

Weaknesses

- Weak pricing power in Basic category.
- Revenue per deal lower than Vikram and Priya.
- Some exposure to low-value deals.

Opportunities

- Can lead Pro product expansion in North and South.
- Can train team on Pro selling and retention strategy.
- Can reduce low-value Basic exposure and focus on higher tiers.

Threats

- If Pro pricing is not fixed, her value may decline.

- Risk of being locked into mid-tier only.

Anil – High-Volume Closer

Strengths

- High deal activity and strong execution speed.
- Good adaptability across regions.
- Can handle large volume of leads.
- Strong presence in North and East.

Weaknesses

- Weak revenue efficiency.
- Over-focus on volume instead of value.
- Heavy discounting in Pro and Basic.
- Low average deal value in South and West.

Opportunities

- Can significantly increase revenue if trained on pricing.
- Can move from volume role to balanced performer.
- Good candidate for structured negotiation training.

Threats

- Incentives based on volume will continue poor pricing behavior.
- Risk of burnout with high volume and low reward.

Rahul – Retention & Enterprise Support

Strengths

- Strong in retaining Enterprise customers.
- Good relationship management skills.
- Stable performance with returning clients.
- Can manage long sales cycles.

Weaknesses

- Weak in acquiring new customers.
- Heavy discounting in new deals.
- Lowest overall revenue share.
- Limited regional diversification.

Opportunities

- Can be positioned as dedicated account manager.
- Can grow new-enterprise selling with coaching.
- Can expand beyond South.

Threats

- Continued poor performance in new deals may reduce confidence.
- Risk of being limited to low-growth role.
